WHY A FOUR DOG STEEL STOVE?

1. MORE EFFICIENT: True airtight door with a high temp gasket for an airtight seal! A baffled firebox that makes the stove approximately 20 - 30% more efficient than other stoves, by forcing flames to go around the baffle before exiting the firebox. It keeps the heat in the firebox not lost up the stove-pipe, allowing you to burn less wood for more heat.
2. SAFER: The airtight door allows complete control of your burn, close the air intake the fire is out, no run away fires. Baffle makes the stove safer by forcing gases and sparks to go around the baffle instead of straight up the pipe. This reduces chances of embers being sucked up the pipe and causing a fire or burn holes in the tent roof.
3. COOKING HOT SPOTS: Baffle creates a hot spot on top of stove for cooking or boiling water. Without the hot spot that the baffle makes, more of the heat goes up the stove-pipe forcing the stove operator to run the stove much hotter, overheating the tent and increasing cook times.

FABRICS

Choosing a tent fabric is a lot like planning that big hunt - you need to know what you are up against in order to achieve the desired results. Hopefully this section will help you with your selection.

Treated Fabrics

Polaris Cloth

Polaris - This 50% cotton / 50% polyester fabric weighs 11 oz. per square yard. It is treated to be water, mildew, and flame resistant (meets CPAI-84 standard). Polaris cloth has a dry finish, excellent resistance, and cold temperature flexibility. This is an excellent fabric recommended for anyone who desires a durable, sturdy, flame resistant tent.

VAPEX FABRIC™

Vapex tent fabric is the replacement for evolution fabric. Vapex does comply with the flame-resistant requirements of CPAI-84 and has a rain impact rating of "storm resistant". Vapex is a "multi-layer laminate polypropylene; the outside spunbond layer provides strength and durability and the middle metblown layers provide a good balance of both moisture barrier water resistance, and breathability. This makes the best fabric for wall tents, light weight at 6.4 oz. per square yard.

Since its founding in 1890, Salem Tent & Awning Company has been owned and operated in Oregon by three generations of the same family. Frank Monner moved the business from its location in Portland to its current home in Salem in 1925. Frank handed the reigns over to his son, Ernest in 1943. Ernest ran the business until 1976 when it was incorporated. Since that time his son in law, Terry Watson, has been an integral part of the operation. Today, he is the remaining working partner and Corporate President.

Terry and his employees are committed to bringing the best quality and selection of tents, and packing equipment, available anywhere.
